

sarahparnell voice

Sarah has been using her voice talents for over 15 years. Apart from a tremendous range of styles and characters, her voice has a natural warmth and authority which is not only popular with major advertisers but also with production companies specialising in narrative work.

She began her working life as an actress. After a long spell trekking up and down the country in touring theatre companies, including a British Council tour to Pakistan as the lead in 'She Stoops to Conquer', she opted for life behind the microphone in the world of voice overs.

Over the last 15 years, Sarah has been involved in many types of voice application, ranging from major TV and Radio campaigns through to documentaries, Radio 4 plays, TV Idents, call-centres, CD-Roms, dubbing foreign films into English, corporate video narration and voicing for road shows.

In recent years, Sarah's voice has been employed in many campaigns, some of which are listed below. Samples of these and other work are available on her demo CD and website.
